

Dear Claudia

We are happy to be a part of the big family “ZOOM - Kids on the Move” for the first time hoping that the number of our Ecology family will continuously rise year by year.

This campaign helped the teachers and the pupils from our primary school “Petar Pop Arsov” – Municipality of Karpos – Skopje to show our great concern about climate protection and in this way we impelled a great interest for ecological travel among children and adults of all ages. The campaign lasted from 29.10.2012 to 05.11.2012. This week made our school a wonderful place to be, full with joy, happiness and competition among all of us for collecting Green footprints as much as possible. The “Ecological race for green footprints” included pupils from first to sixth grade aged 6-11 together with their teachers. During the week the students and the teachers travelled ecologically to and back from school. At the same time they carried flags with green footprints delivering a clear message to the environment - “Travel ecologically to protect the climate”.

Every day the hardworking hands of the pupils filled their albums with stickers, noting their ecological journeys and day by day the tracking calendar became more and more filled up with green footprints. The youngest pupils from the first to the third grade were true artists and they illustrated their journeys to school with lots of drawings. The other pupils on their English and German classes played the “Road Detectives” and “My School Journeys” and filled in the worksheets. The Natural sciences classes were used to make interviews about the school journeys, consuming healthy food and saving energy and they wrote their notes in the ecological journals. The pupils were very creative – they wrote poems and eco-messages for climate protection written on green footprints, which were given to the parents who came to school and to the citizens in the municipality.

During the one-week campaign our school managed to collect 5542 green footprints.

We believe that all these activities in our school will be a part of our school practice in the years to come aiming a single goal – all together to protect the climate for a better life today and tomorrow.
